SCOPE
A laboratory may withdraw from an EQA scheme for many reasons: most commonly due to technical failure of a test. This factsheet has been written as a guide to help EMQN members manage withdrawing from participating in an EQA scheme. If the reason for withdrawal is resolved by the laboratory then they may re-instate themselves into the scheme. There is no limit on the number of times a laboratory can change their decision but note that the deadline for notifying EMQN is the EQA results submission date/time (as defined in the scheme instructions and/or on the EMQN website).

Laboratories which have not notified EMQN of their intentions to withdraw from a scheme may be subject to classification as a Poor Performer due to non-participation. Therefore, all laboratories are encouraged to make this decision BEFORE the results submission deadline.

INSTRUCTIONS – WITHDRAWING FROM AN EQA SCHEME PARTICIPATION

1. Go to the EMQN website [www.emqn.org]
2. Click on “Schemes” menu button.
3. Click on blue menu bar next to the scheme from which you want to withdraw (Figure 1).
